A Letter from Mr. Oily Rice Cake to Miss Colourful Red Packet

by Chan Pui Ki Karen 5C

Dear Miss Colourful Red Packet,

How are you? I am upset now because no one likes me. In the past, many people wanted to buy me at Chinese New Year. Nowadays, many people do not want to buy me because I am oily food. I became bad in the market. People threw me into the rubbish bin. I am very sad.

I want to be a red packet. Many people give me to children. The children love to see me. There is money inside me so children have a big smile when they get me. I want to be a rich, too.

Best Wishes,
Mr. Oily Rice Cake

A Fire

by Cheung Ka Ho Andy 5D

Yesterday, I had dim sum with my grandparents in a Chinese restaurant. I wanted to eat barbecue pork bun and carrot soup.

Suddenly, I saw some smoke coming out from the kitchen. We felt worried. Then the waiters came out from the kitchen and shouted loudly, "Help! Help!" When the customers knew that there was a fire, they ran away quickly. We also ran out of the building very fast. One of the customers called the police.

After five minutes, the firemen came. Then, they put out the fire. Unluckily, a man died. I heard that the man helped other people to escape, so he died in the fire. I thought the man was very brave because he sacrificed his life for others.

My Healthy Lifestyle

by Cheung Yee Ping Sally 5B

My name is Lisa Cheung. I am a primary five student. I was weak and fat two years ago. But now, I am healthy and fit. I would like to tell you what happened in the past two years and what I am doing now.

Two years ago, I slept late. I only slept for five hours a day. I did not have breakfast. I ate a lot of unhealthy food. For lunch, I ate too much deep-fried food such as French fries and I did not eat any fruit or vegetables. I just had snacks for dinner. I drank two cans of soft drinks every day. I did not do any exercise. Besides, I always felt sad.

Now, I am healthier than before. I have a bowl of congee and a carton of milk for breakfast. For lunch and dinner, I eat a lot of healthy food. For example, I always eat vegetables and plenty of rice. I drink 6-8 glasses of water every day and I also do exercise regularly. I sleep earlier now. I sleep for eight to ten hours a day. I keep myself happy all the time.

It is not difficult to keep yourself healthy. I hope the above advice is useful to all of you.

A Letter to Mr. Smelly Rice Dumpling by Cheung Shut Yee Feeney 5D

Dear Mr. Smelly Rice Dumpling,

How are you? We are going to meet each other very soon. It makes me happy but worried. I am glad to let the dragon boat cross the river because it is clean.

However, you and your friends were dirty and you jumped into the water last year. The fish didn't like to eat you and the rice became smelly. You made me oily and dirty. Please don't jump into the water again! You'd better stay on the table and let people eat you. People like you so much but I don't like you. Don't pollute me this year! Would you please ask your friends not to jump into the water? I don't want to be dirty again!

Love,

Miss Clean Dragon Boat Water

Happy Prince and Little Swallow (a new ending) by Lam Tsz Fung Jacky 5A

One day, some miners found some treasure. There were rubies, sapphires, gold, silvers, diamonds and a little jade. The miners mined them up and gave two diamonds, a piece of jade and a large piece of silver to Little Swallow.

Little Swallow put the different jewels on Happy Prince. Diamonds were for his eyes, the jade was for his sword and the silver was for his skin. After the repair, Happy Prince looked very shiny. Those two diamonds were sparkling!

They also built a big nest on Happy Prince's shoulder for Little Swallow to live. It was covered with cotton.

Happy Prince and Little Swallow lived together happily.
